Class History

HISTORY OF THE CLASS OF 1969

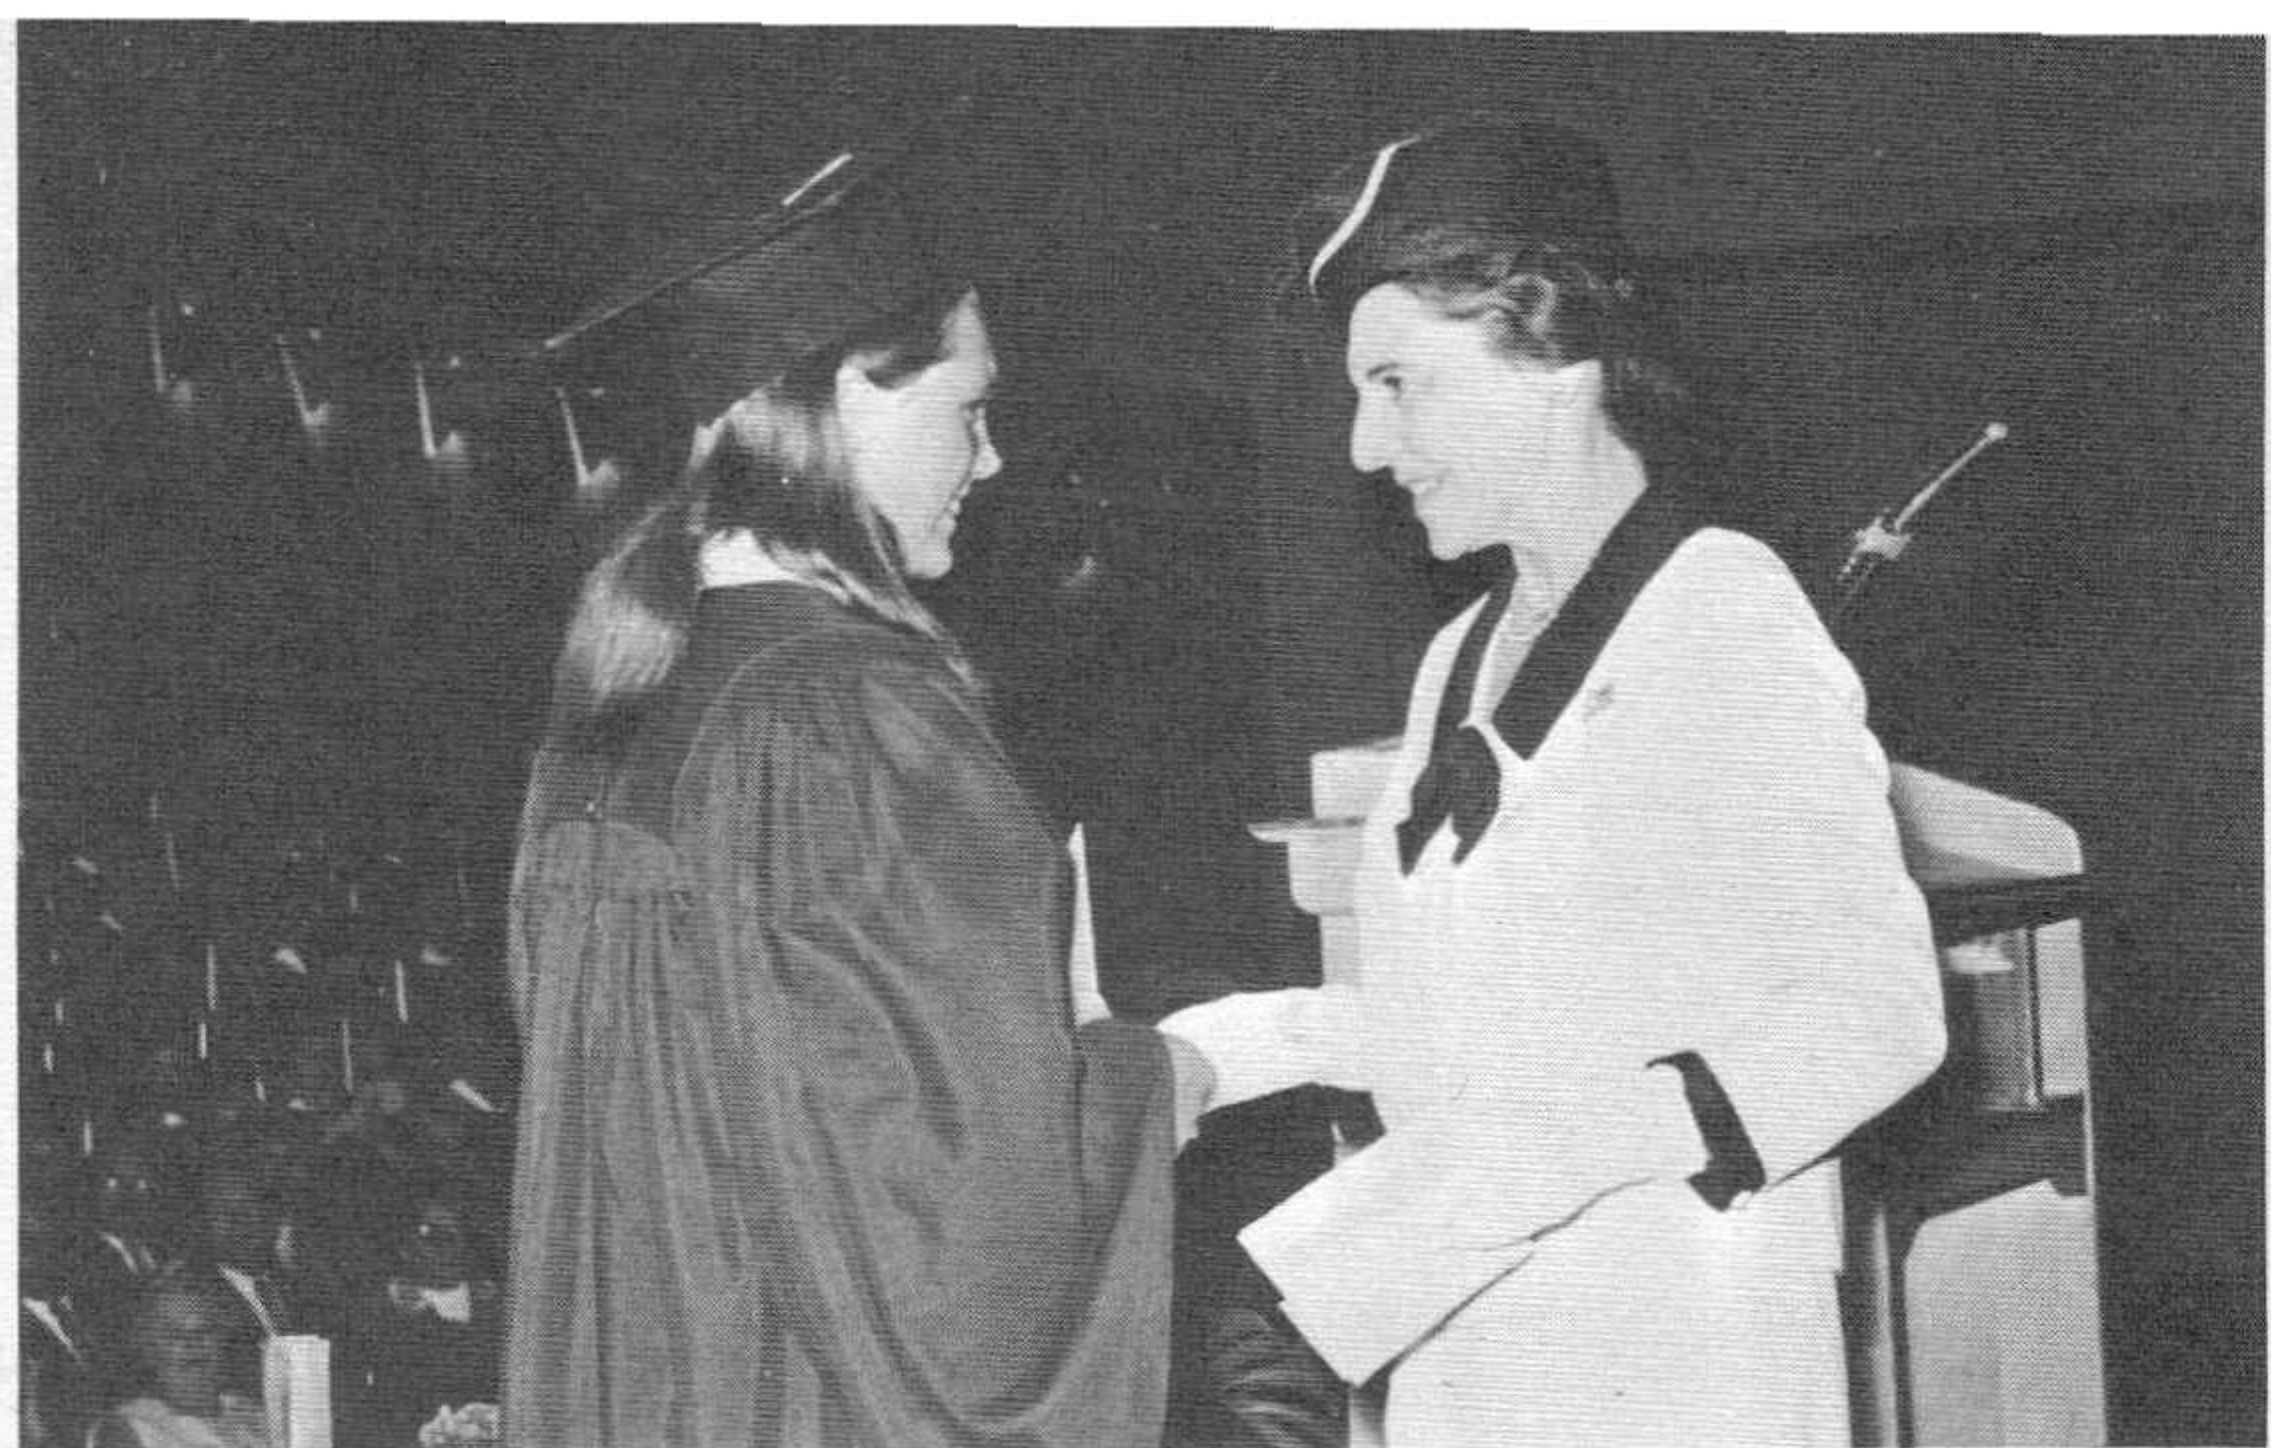

by Michael S. Albert
Nancy C. Martin

"All the world's a stage." On September 7, 1966, we entered Natick High School ready to conquer that world and prove William Shakespeare right.

As we shuffled apprehensively into our homerooms, we were pinned down in our seats to take tests for the entire day. We were fortunate enough to have that day set aside especially for us to adjust ourselves to the school before the towering Seniors and grudge-begotten Juniors arrived. Though the last class to have this traditional time of indoctrination, our first day of high school was only the beginning of many "firsts" for our incomparable class. On that day of reckoning, we received the traditional Red and Blue Handbooks (which strangely enough were brown), and took them home to memorize the rules and regulations, the all-important map layout of the school (just, of course, for emergency measure), and the traditional Alma Mater, lest we be caught unaware in the back of the school bus by some over-anxious Senior the next day.

Our Sophomore year was one of adjustment and change to the ways of high school life. We were the first class to enter Natick High to use the new facilities without watching or hearing the construction. Just as we saw the beginning of the "Impossible Dream" for the Red Sox in the spring of our Sophomore year, we saw the beginnings of teamwork on the athletic fields as well as in the classrooms. Like the Cardiac Kids of 1967, we united to form first-rate sports teams. First prizes were awarded in the annual Science Fair to Dave Harvi for his Chemistry project and to Scott McKinnon for his Biology project. The Sophomore Executive Board elected Buddy Sheppard, Ruth Townsend, Nancy Martin, and Maripat Dean as class officers. The successful Sophomore dance, Perpetual Surrealistic Salutation, was highlighted by the fact that two members of our class, Glenn and Mal, won first prize in the talent show. By the end of our Sophomore year, we no longer retained the classifications of being from Coolidge or Kennedy or Wilson: we had together become the Class of 1969.

As the first Sophomores ever to use voting machines, we had elected as Junior class officers: Buddy Sheppard, Jim Ray, Weezie Boyle, and Wendy Richard. While helping to cheer the Natick High School teams on to greater victories, cheerleaders Weezie Boyle, Cindy Burnham, Maripat Dean, Debbie Niles, Eileen Sullivan, and Cheryle Wilson also helped to carry the name and further the dream. Bob Cohen won the grand prize in the Science portion of the newly-established and very successful All-School Fair. Maryanne O'Toole and Sophie Szpakowska placed in the top 1% of the American Association of Teachers of Spanish and Portuguese Test, subsequently receiving medals. Finalists in the National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test were Donna Barbour, Irene Kessel, and Cynthia Ware. Thirteen other members of the Class of 1969 received letters of commendation. Nine members of our class worked at the Natick Army Laboratories via the Science Seminar Program. And 511 members of the Class of 1969 unanimously decided to remove the Prom from the cluttered cafeteria.

On April 5, 1968, 32 Juniors were inducted into the National Honor Society. It was a solemn ceremony appropriate for the solemn mood of the times. Martin Luther King had been assassinated the day before in Memphis, Tennessee. The Reverend Dr. King, the leader of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and leader of his people, is very much a part of the History of the Class of 1969, because of his effect on each one of us. His dream can become our dream.

Seriously, then, we turned to the matter of electing Senior class officers and chose to lead the Class of 1969 Jim Ray, Nancy Martin, Weezie Boyle, and Wendy Richard. At this time we would like to extend our appreciation for their hard work and diligence in leading our class through these troubled times as well as to our able and understanding advisors, Mrs. Javier and Mr. Mannix.

On Class Day last year, Judy Barnes and Paul Sullivan were selected as the two outstanding students of our class. Contrasting their good fortune, however, was the tragedy of losing yet another great man of our times. Senator Robert F. Kennedy became the second victim in two months of an assassin's bullet.

With the Seniors leaving at this critical time, we, the Class of 1969, pulled together, determined to brave all crises presented to us. We were alone as the elders of the high school. We first became Seniors one year ago today, in the wake of violence and tragedy in our country. Yet it was because of the mood of the times that we were determined that peace must prevail. We, the Class of 1969, were truly united in the hope that the age of Aquarius would soon come.

We entered Natick High on September 4, 1968, for the first day of classes for the last time with that thought — that the dawn of harmony and understanding, with sympathy and trust of every man would soon be a reality.

The first reality of our Senior year presented itself in the form of the Senior Class Play, "Romanoff and Juliet", which starred Dave Harvi as the General, Peter Myer and Marilyn Patch in the title roles, and Mike Albert, Wendy Burns, Bob Misiuk, and Sue Tiberio as their parents. The Senior Class owes a great debt to Mr.

Garnett for his hard work and patience in making our Senior Class Play the finest in recent years.

In music, Bob Misiuk and Stilly Sprague were selected for the Northeast District Band in their Senior and Junior years. Other Seniors to be selected were Ken Gross, Blair Harden, Louis Schorr, and Dave Winters. Again, Stilly Sprague was selected for the All-State Band for his Junior and Senior years. Ken Gross joined him this past year. An addition to these talented artists is Dara Roberts who sang in the Northeast District Chorus.

In art, gold keys were won in 1967 by Jeni Collier and Colleen Morris, in 1968 by Irene Howard, and in 1969 by Chris Kobbs and Fred Martins.

Not to be outdone by the aforementioned award-winning artists was the Goal Post Committee with its surprising masterpiece which boosted Natick's spirits somewhat at the annual Thanksgiving Game victory.

Seniors Gary Fitch captained the football team; Brian McNamara, the cross-country team; Eric Kaplan, the soccer team; Steve O'Neil and Rich Young, the basketball team; Mark Brenneman, the indoor track team; Tom Pallotta, for two years, and Stan Janiak, the hockey team; Paul Lindquist, the gymnastics team; Tom Pallotta, the baseball team; Alan Linsky and Ted Chapman, both for two years, the tennis team; Ron Montgomery and Steve Oldfield, the track and field team; and Kevin Whelan, the golf team.

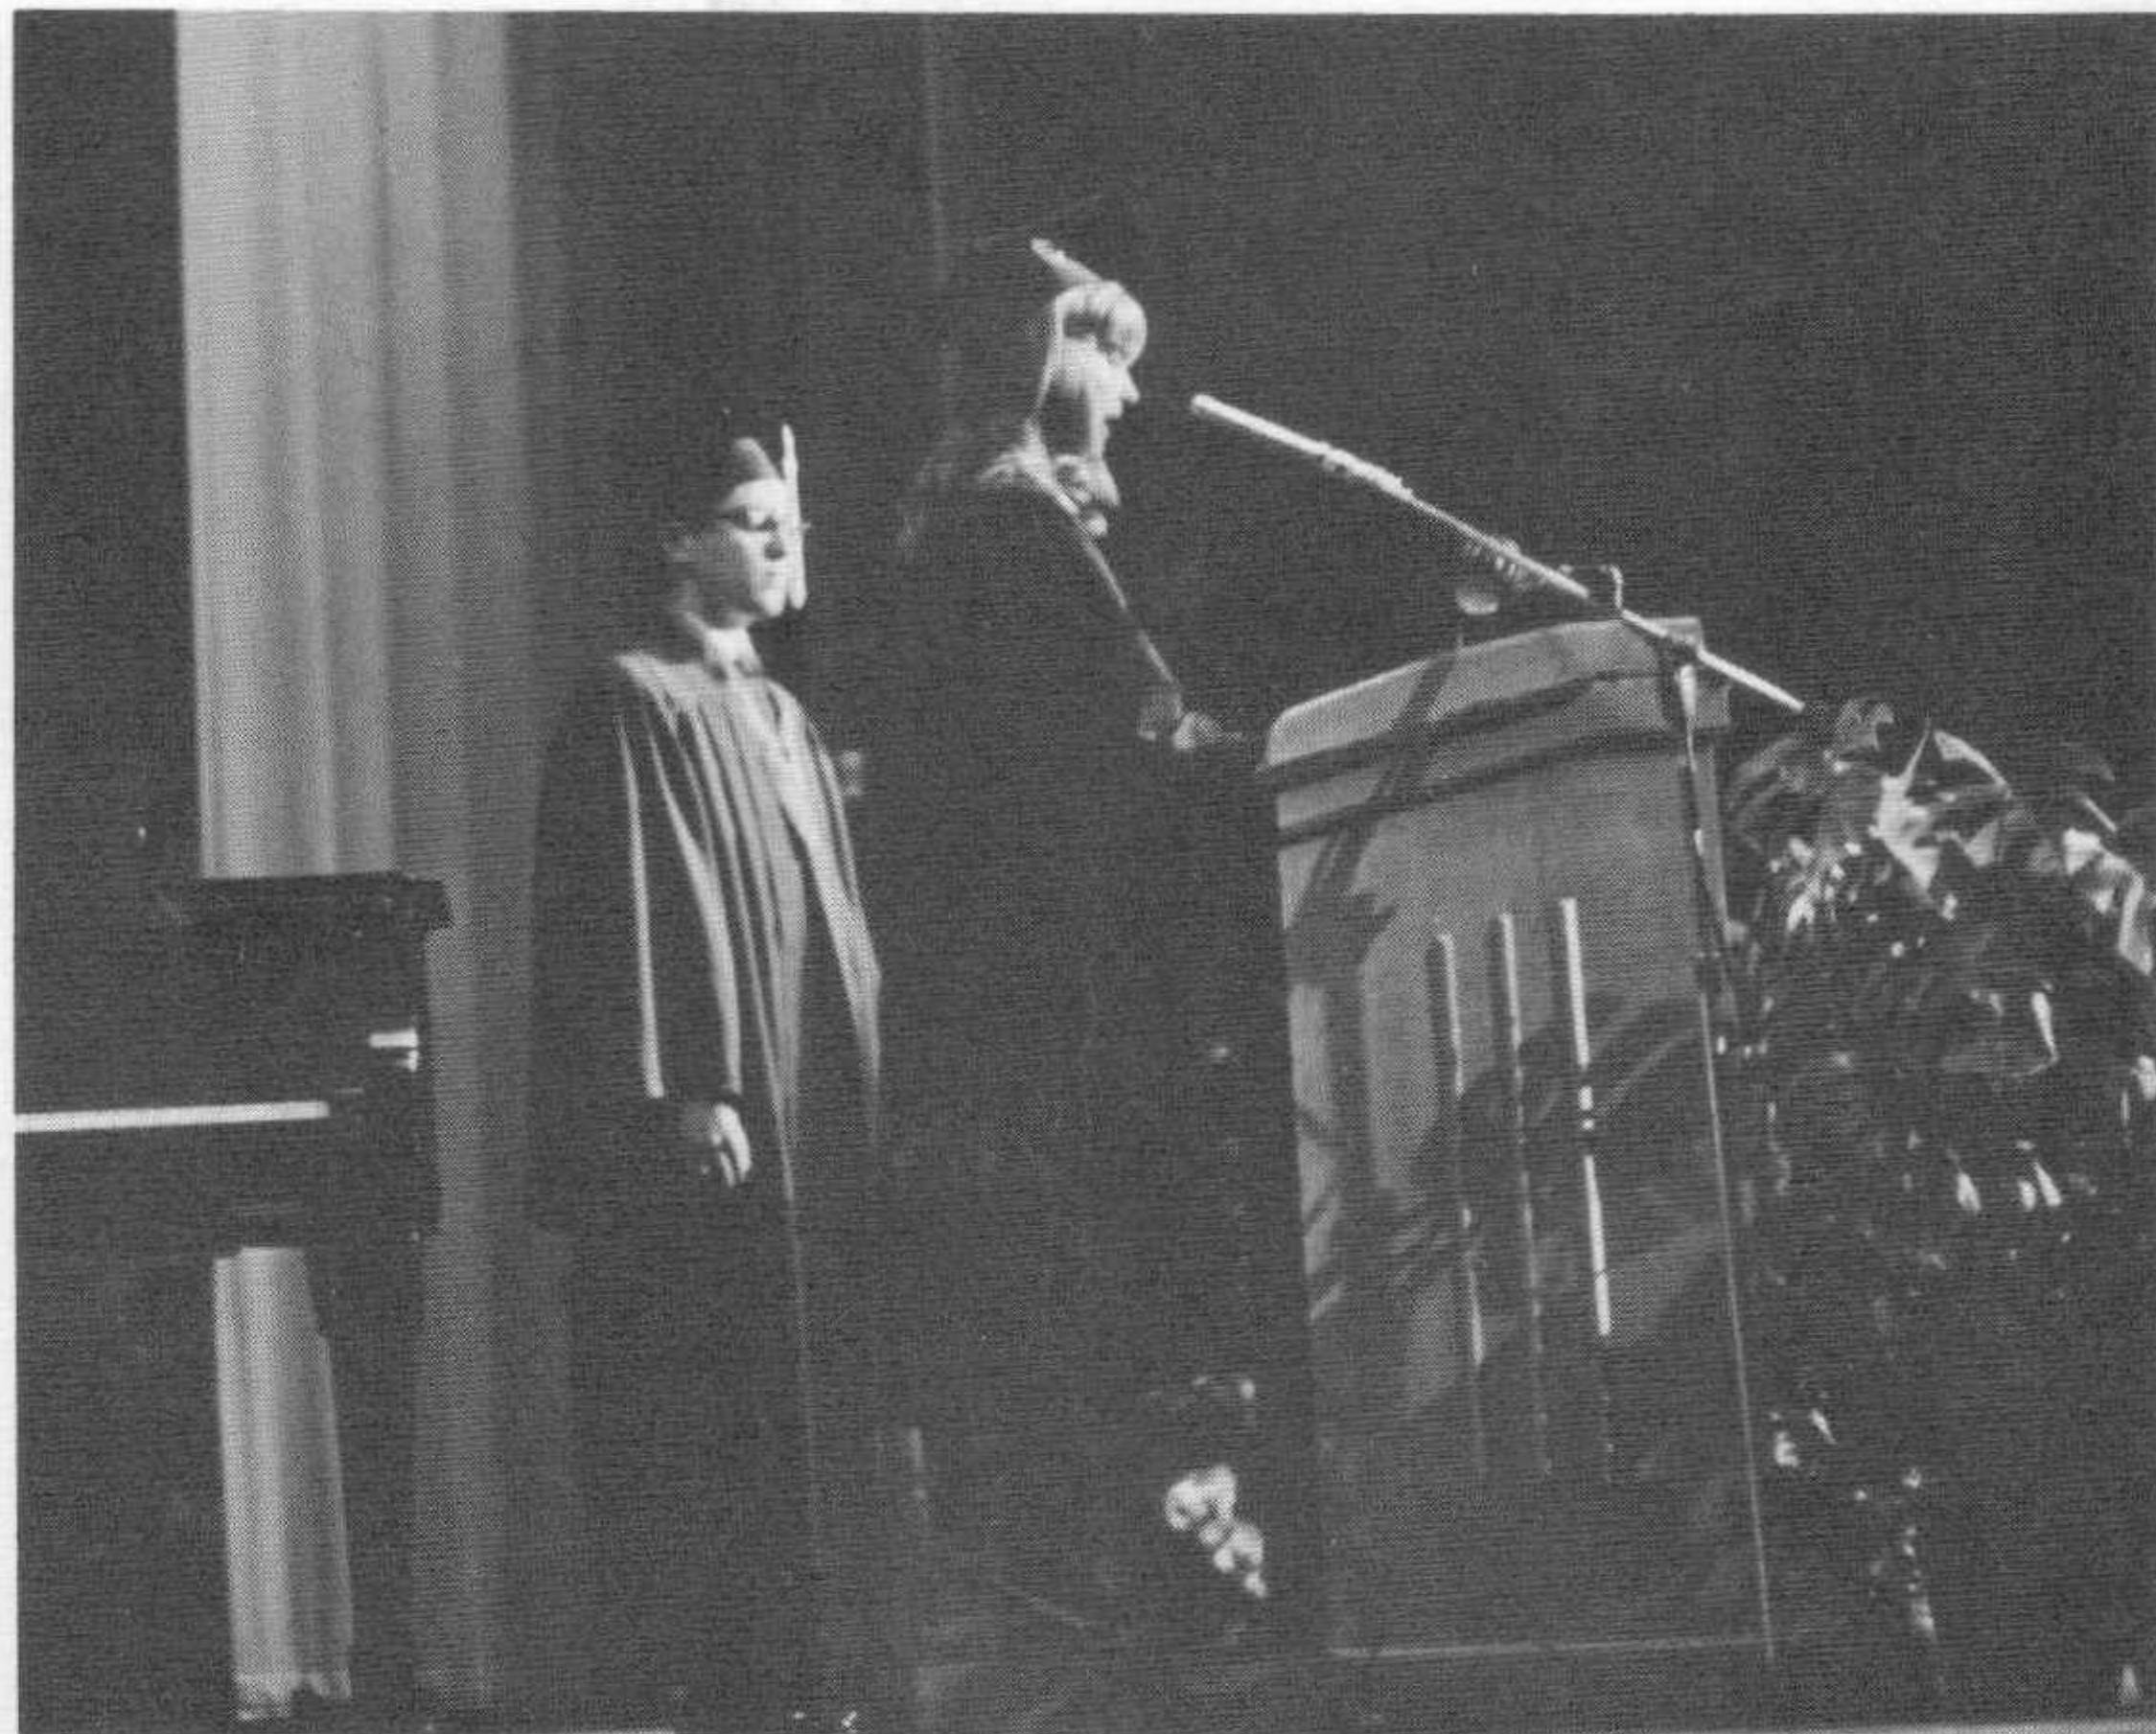

For the first time since entering Natick High, our victorious hockey team qualified for the state hockey tournament and our stupendous tennis team qualified for the state tennis tournament by the upset victory over Needham High School, breaking their winning streak of over fifty matches. Our cross-country team, despite all handicaps, jogged to the Bay State League Championship. Our indoor track team, not to be outdone by anyone, clinched the Metropolitan League Division I championship. In the state finals, Natick High School became the first team ever to win the State Championship without a single first place. Our congratulations and thanks not only to the boys on the squad but also to the superb coaching by Mr. Whelan and Mr. Bransfield.

However, this does not complete the list of athletic competition at Natick High. There yet remain four more sports teams — those played by our extraordinary and mighty, grand and glorious girls. Ruth Townsend captained the field hockey team and Sharon Bornstein captained the basketball team. It should be noted that the basketball team emerged after two years with an unblemished and storms, however, did not dampen the spirits of our cheerleaders, Seniors Weezie Boyle, Cindy Burnham, Linda Cameron, Maripat Dean, Debbie Niles, Wendy Richard, Eileen Sullivan, and Captain Cheryle Wilson who cheered their way, with the rest of the squad, to third place in the cheering competition at Northeastern University.

At the now annual All-School Fair, Bob Cohen won first prize in the field of Chemistry, Dave Phelps won first prize in the field of Anatomy and Physiology, and Rob Rubin won first prize in the field of Physics. Frank Wright won a medal in the National Spanish test by placing nationally in the top 1%. Wendy Richard won the DAR Good Citizenship award and Buddy Sheppard, the Jewish War Veterans award. At Student Government Day, Kim Williamson was the chairman of the Revolutionary War Bicentennial Commission. At Girls' State, Nancy Martin not only played the leading role of Auntie Mame in the production of the Broadway show, but also was the Chief of the Fire Department. Tom Bamford, at Boys' State, was head of the Park Department and George McNamara was head of the Town Cemetery.

This year, we were pleased and privileged to welcome Walter Ramos from Peru as our A.F.S. exchange student. Throughout the year, he has made many lasting friendships, been elected to the National Honor Society, and learned much about America and, in particular, that swinging hotspot, Natick, Massachusetts.

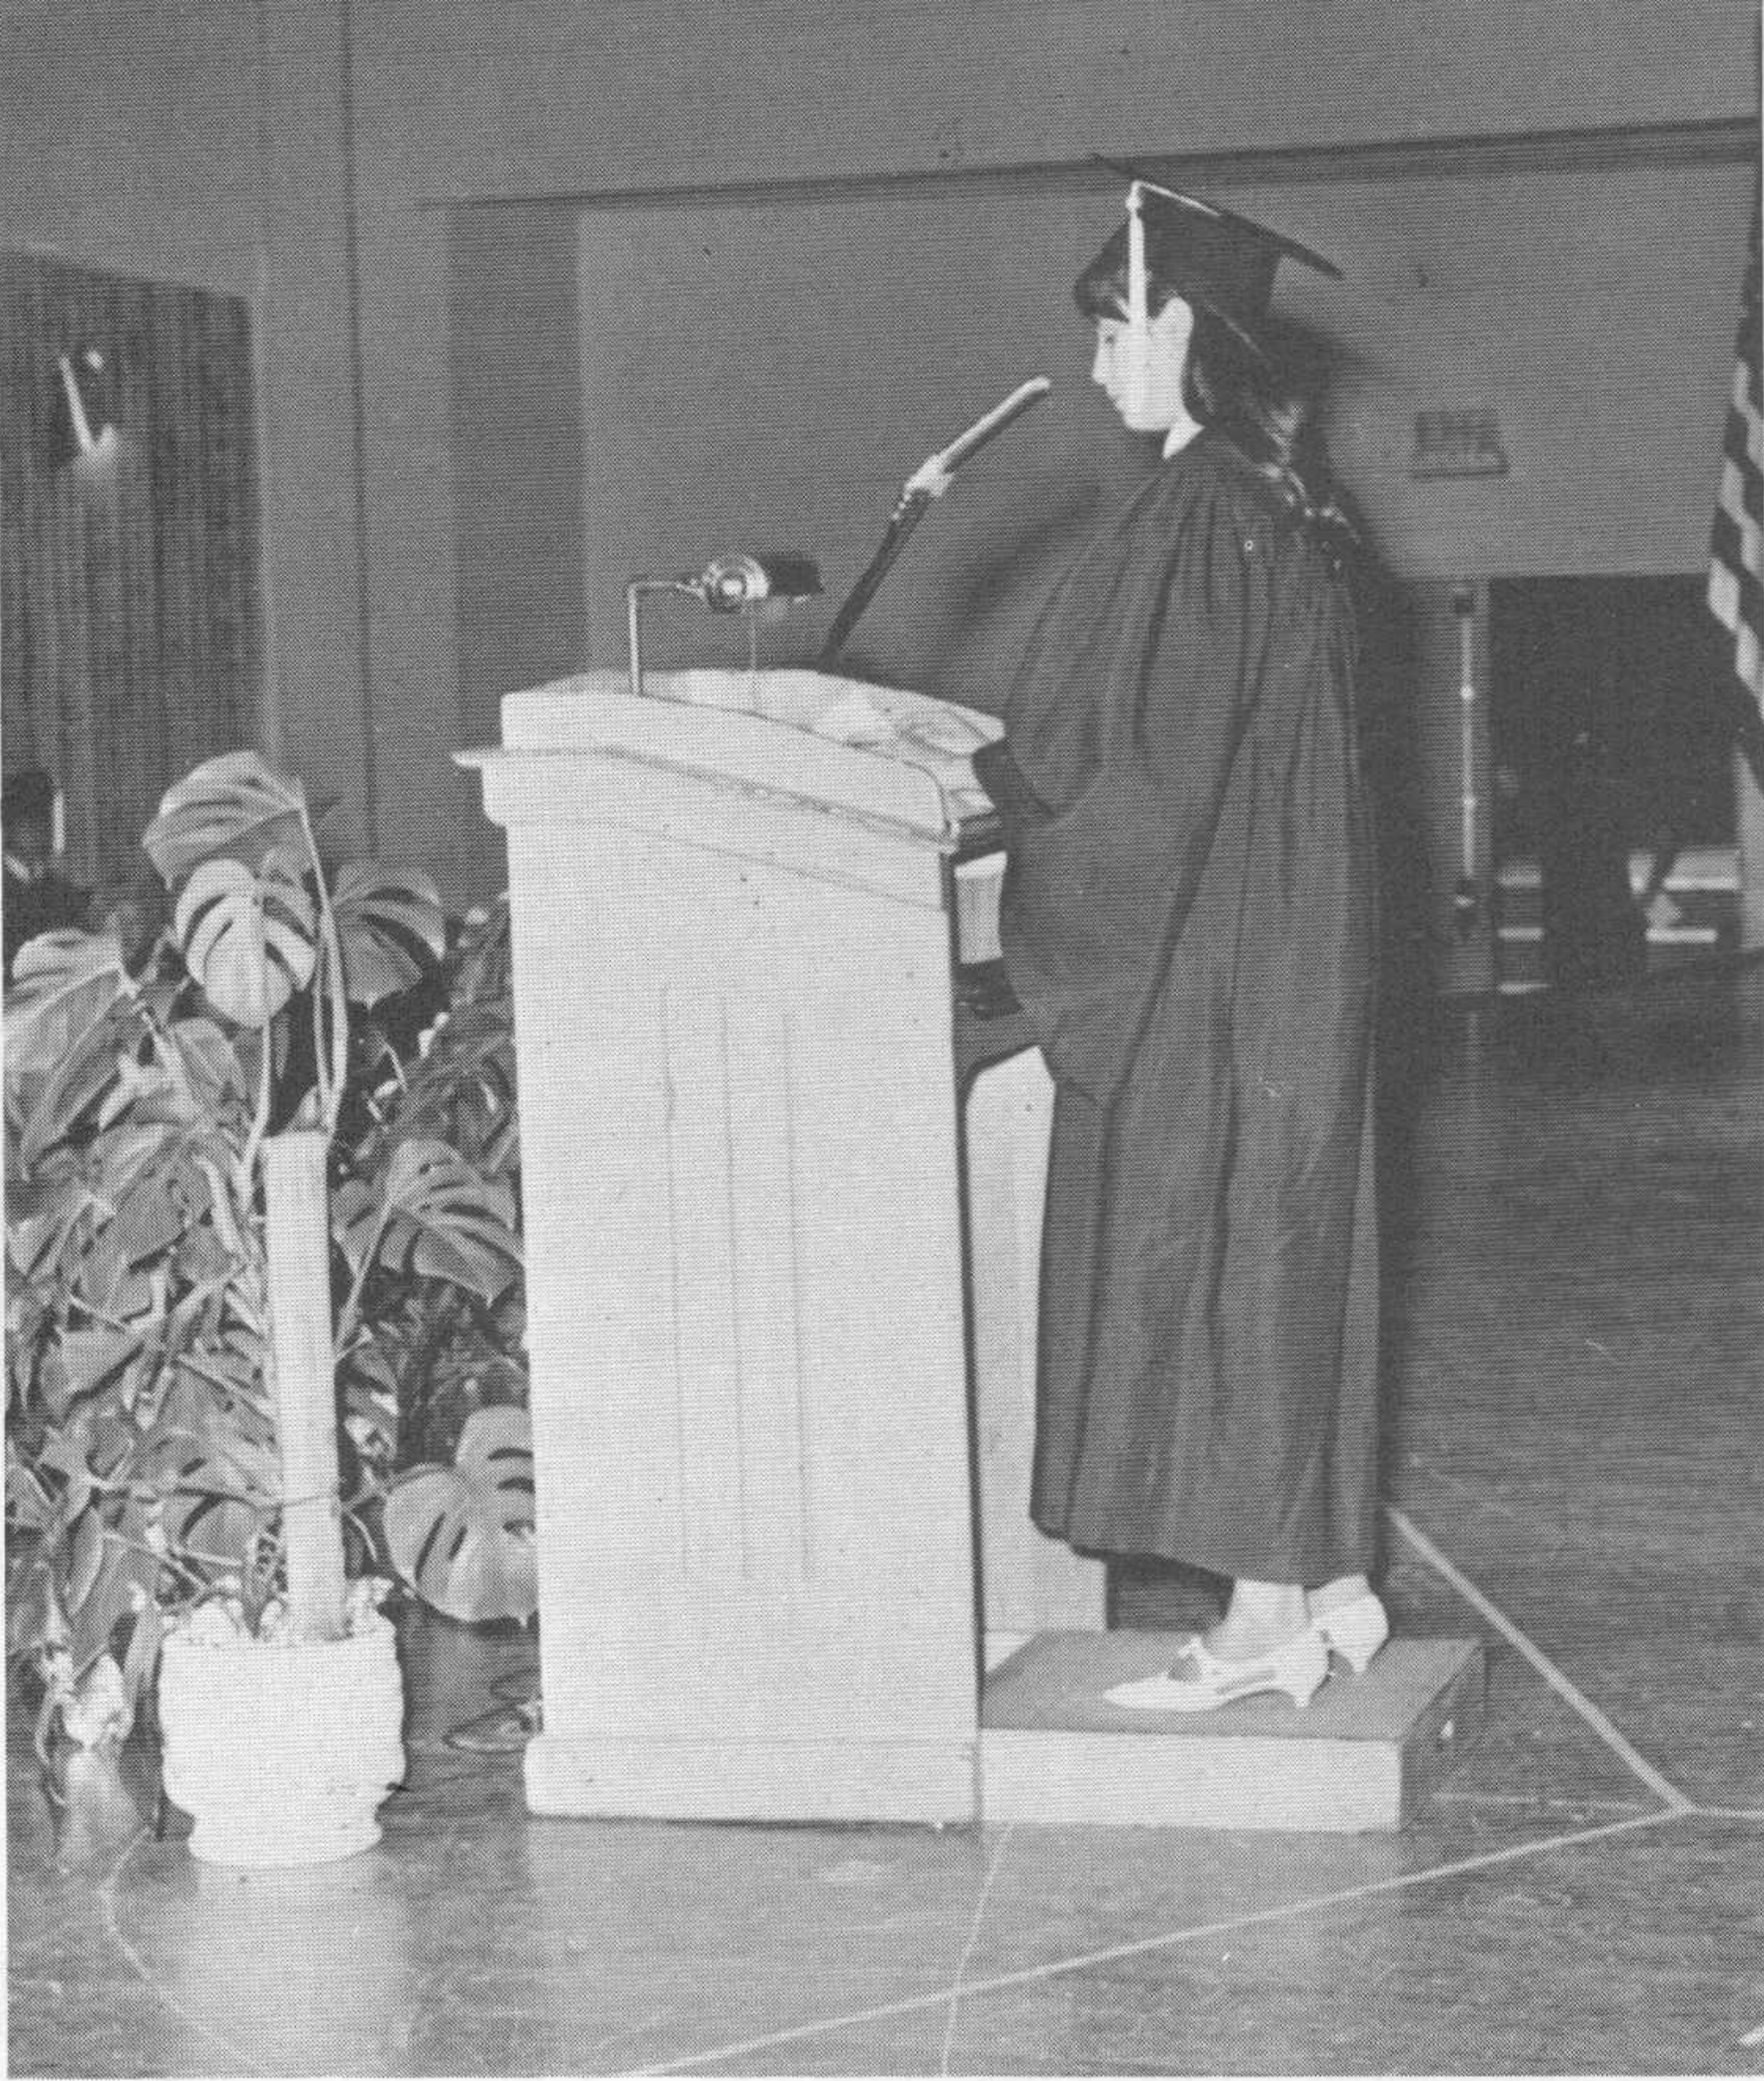

unequalled record in the Bay State League of 0 and 14. The girls' tennis team was co-captained by Wendy Richard and Charlene Zicko, and the softball team was co-captained by Sharon Bornstein and Julie Malcourronne. Both Sharon and Julie were the two most valuable Seniors on the team. They were also the only two Seniors on the team.

There have been many outstanding things about our Senior year at Natick High. The most memorable seems to be the total of seven days of school during the month of February. Weekend snowstorms called off school, pushed back theses, and endangered the date of graduation. We emerged, nevertheless, with only minor casualties, foremost of which were mild backaches from shovelling. The snow-

Doreen Sorabella became the first girl to be President of Honor Society, and Bob Cohen became President of the Eastern Massachusetts Association of National Honor Society Chapters. A half ton of good, used clothing was collected during a clothing drive for the poor in Appalachia. Honor Society became the first club to sponsor movies; "Free and Easy" and "The Performers" depicting the exciting life of the surfing set. In addition, during this past year, Honor Society decided to change its Induction Ceremony to an evening affair, which made the proceedings more meaningful to those involved.

Student Council had an important year. Buddy Sheppard attended the national convention in Dallas as the national delegate representing the Eastern Massachusetts Division of Student Councils. He was elected as the delegate at the annual convention which was held at Natick High. Student Council sponsored the very successful "slave auction" which helped to boost spirits and prepare our Red-men for the Thanksgiving Game the next day, a dance at which the dress code of jackets and ties was relaxed for the first time ever, and an important exchange program began with Wellesley High. The most significant piece of legislation of this year's Student Council concerned changes in the dress code. Sandals may be worn by members of either sex, and boys, rejoice! — Socks are no longer a required part of your school dress!

Competitive Speaking is one of the newest forms of competition at Natick High. Last year, at the state finals, Michele DiSavino won a gold medal and Tina Lipofsky won a silver medal. Brenda Morris recited the Gettysburg Address at last year's Memorial Day ceremonies. Victoria Ricks won first prize in the category of girls' extemporaneous speaking at the Holly Speech Festival at Natick this year, and Mike Albert, who has won the American Legion Oratorical Contest for four years, in addition this past year was the first runner-up in the Middlesex County finals. At the state finals this year at the University of Massachusetts, not only did Michele DiSavino win the state championship in the category of dramatic interpretation, enabling her to enter the national finals in Washington, D.C., but also Senior gold medal winners Mike Albert, Deborah McKay, and Frank Wright, and silver medal winners Bob Cohen, Michele DiSavino, Tina Lipofsky, and Tatiana Roodkowsky helped the Natick team win the first annual Team Sweepstakes which designated Natick High as the State Champions. Our sincere congratulations and thanks to Mr. Dyer for his exceptional coaching.

The Senior year of the Class of '69 ended with a bang. The Student Council enlisted Mr. Dyer's skill in directing what proved to be a spectacular and utterly fantastic show — Life 69. This fast-paced musical revue depicted all different kinds of people united in a common effort. Harmony and understanding, sympathy and trust abounded throughout the entire audience as they "let the sunshine in."

It is altogether fitting that we should end our Senior year with such a performance on-stage, for we, the Class of 1969, have gone through many stages of development during our various years at Natick High School. As Sophomores, we witnessed the year of the impossible dream, as Juniors, we witnessed a year of violence and assassination, and as Seniors, we witnessed the year of the snow storm. To quote the successful Drama Club production, "A Company of Wayward Saints", "The prologue is completed, and the play begins." We have completed our years at Natick High, but we have only begun to discover the years ahead. We have grown, matured, and prospered since we first entered on that bewildering day in September during which time we have explored many hidden barriers and yet realized that there are still unknowns to be discovered and conquered. Let us continue from this prologue and create a masterpiece of a play. Let us always remember, "All the world's a stage."

Class Will

We, Paul Demeo, Alan Bartlett, and Benny Bamford of the T.A.P. Sign Co., leave the ice house to anyone with the artistic talent to create such a masterpiece.

We, the senior girls, leave the grass in the inner courtyard to the junior girls.

We, Ron Pfeiffer and Paul Fitzgerald, leave our feet to the Stolberg twins.

We, Dummy and Fred, leave the NHS dirt parking lot.

We, Sandy Chaet, Maureen Carew, Linda Lemieux, Weezie Boyle, Arlene Dalo, and Jill Fitzgerald, leave our mountains to all molehills.

We, Kathy Fagan and Janet Glynn, leave all our freckles to Jimmy Morris.

We, the senior officers of the Future Teachers Club, leave next year's officers a half-dozen stale doughnuts and a half-can of decarbonated Coke.

We, the members of Homeroom 106, leave to Miss Camougis, Charlie Augustini and Jeff Aresty, and the hope that next year's homeroom will be a mature group who will be able to tell when it's ten past eight and who will also be able to get down to the auditorium without too much help.

I, a certain senior girl, leave all my studies in the music wing to any underclassman smart enough to get away with them.

We, Elaine and Marie, leave our upsidedown Q's to Mr. Ghilani.

I, Buddy Sheppard, leave to Bob Raider: one worn out pair of gum shoes, some free advice on how to close an assembly in the usual manner (in the middle of an assembly), the hope that he gets Mr. Dyer to direct his show, and the sincere wish that he doesn't become a radical extremist at the end of his senior year.

We, Julie Malcouronne and Sharon Bornstein, leave to Miss Leavitt a new doubleplay combination and the hope that our replacements will be better hustlers than the two departing.

We, Mr. McElholm's E period Modern Problems class, leave five window poles — all hidden.

I, David Perlman, leave my Playboy magazines to next year's senior class play.

I, Randy Gwinn, leave Mr. McGrath a direct line to my home and twenty-five pads of tardy slips.

I, Ron Pfeiffer, leave Mr. Taylor a set of self-locking lug nuts.

I, Buddy Sheppard, leave the new dress code with an apology to all local socks salesmen. I also leave the sports page of Sassamon, knowing that it probably will never be so symbolic again.

We, Jay Swartz and Jeff Aresty, leave our Safety Patrol badges over our hearts.

We, the seniors of Miss Buss's E period French III class, leave her a box of stars to paste on the foreheads of her two favorites.

I, Daniel Green, leave to Thomas Griffin the few hopes, dreams, and ideals that we, as a team, didn't have time to try out.

We, the senior class, leave Mr. Marcoux grassin' it up on Mari-ronna.

We, Maddy Farrell, Kathy Mangini, Patty Conlon, and Julie Davies of Mrs. Nabreski's F period homemaking class, leave her two S.L.'s, a Red, a cow, a package of chocolate bits, and a year's supply of bouillon.

We, the class of '69, leave the matron a pair of roller skates, to go from the 600 wing to front hall girls' rooms.

We, Kim Williamson and Jay Swartz, leave to Miss Buckley and Miss Ward that eternal phrase: "Truth is Beauty and Beauty is Truth." . . . Yes!

We, the members of C period Honor Society study, leave to Mr. Bennett a crash course that he can give to next year's Honor Society on "How To Enter the Honor Society Study Without Disrupting My History Class Every Five Minutes," and the latest edition of Modern Dance, as written and taught by Jeff Aresty.

I, Bob Misiuk, leave Mr. Bransfield one lock of my hair.

We, the senior class, leave Dave Abbot a new pair of shoes.

We, the senior members of the wrestling team, leave Mr. Murphy one win and the hope that they will do as well next year.

We, Patty, Ann, Elaine, Cheryl, and Cindi of Mr. Carroll's B period Modern Problem's class, leave him two new sponges and the hope that he will acquire a taste for pumpkin seeds.

I, Jim Pownell, leave "the stench" to be discovered by all future advanced science students.

We, the percussion section of the band, leave Jim Powers one strong elastic for the triangle so that he can "ring those chimes" in "Lawrence Milk Plays Guy Lumbago."

We, the seniors of Competitive Speech, leave to Mr. Dyer our two trophies for winning the State Speech Championship with the hopes that he'll never have to give the larger one back — that Natick will win it every year.

We, Sandy Young and Paula Nickerson, leave a tennis racket and a pair of Japanese rubber sneakers to Mr. O'Connor.

We, the senior members of the varsity tennis team, leave to our coach, Mr. Crow, the following: a box of Dinkie Twinkies, a new overdrive button, a lesson in hairdressing, and a "Not so fine" team.

We, Helmar, leave Sassamon with the hope that they can find one head that's better than two.

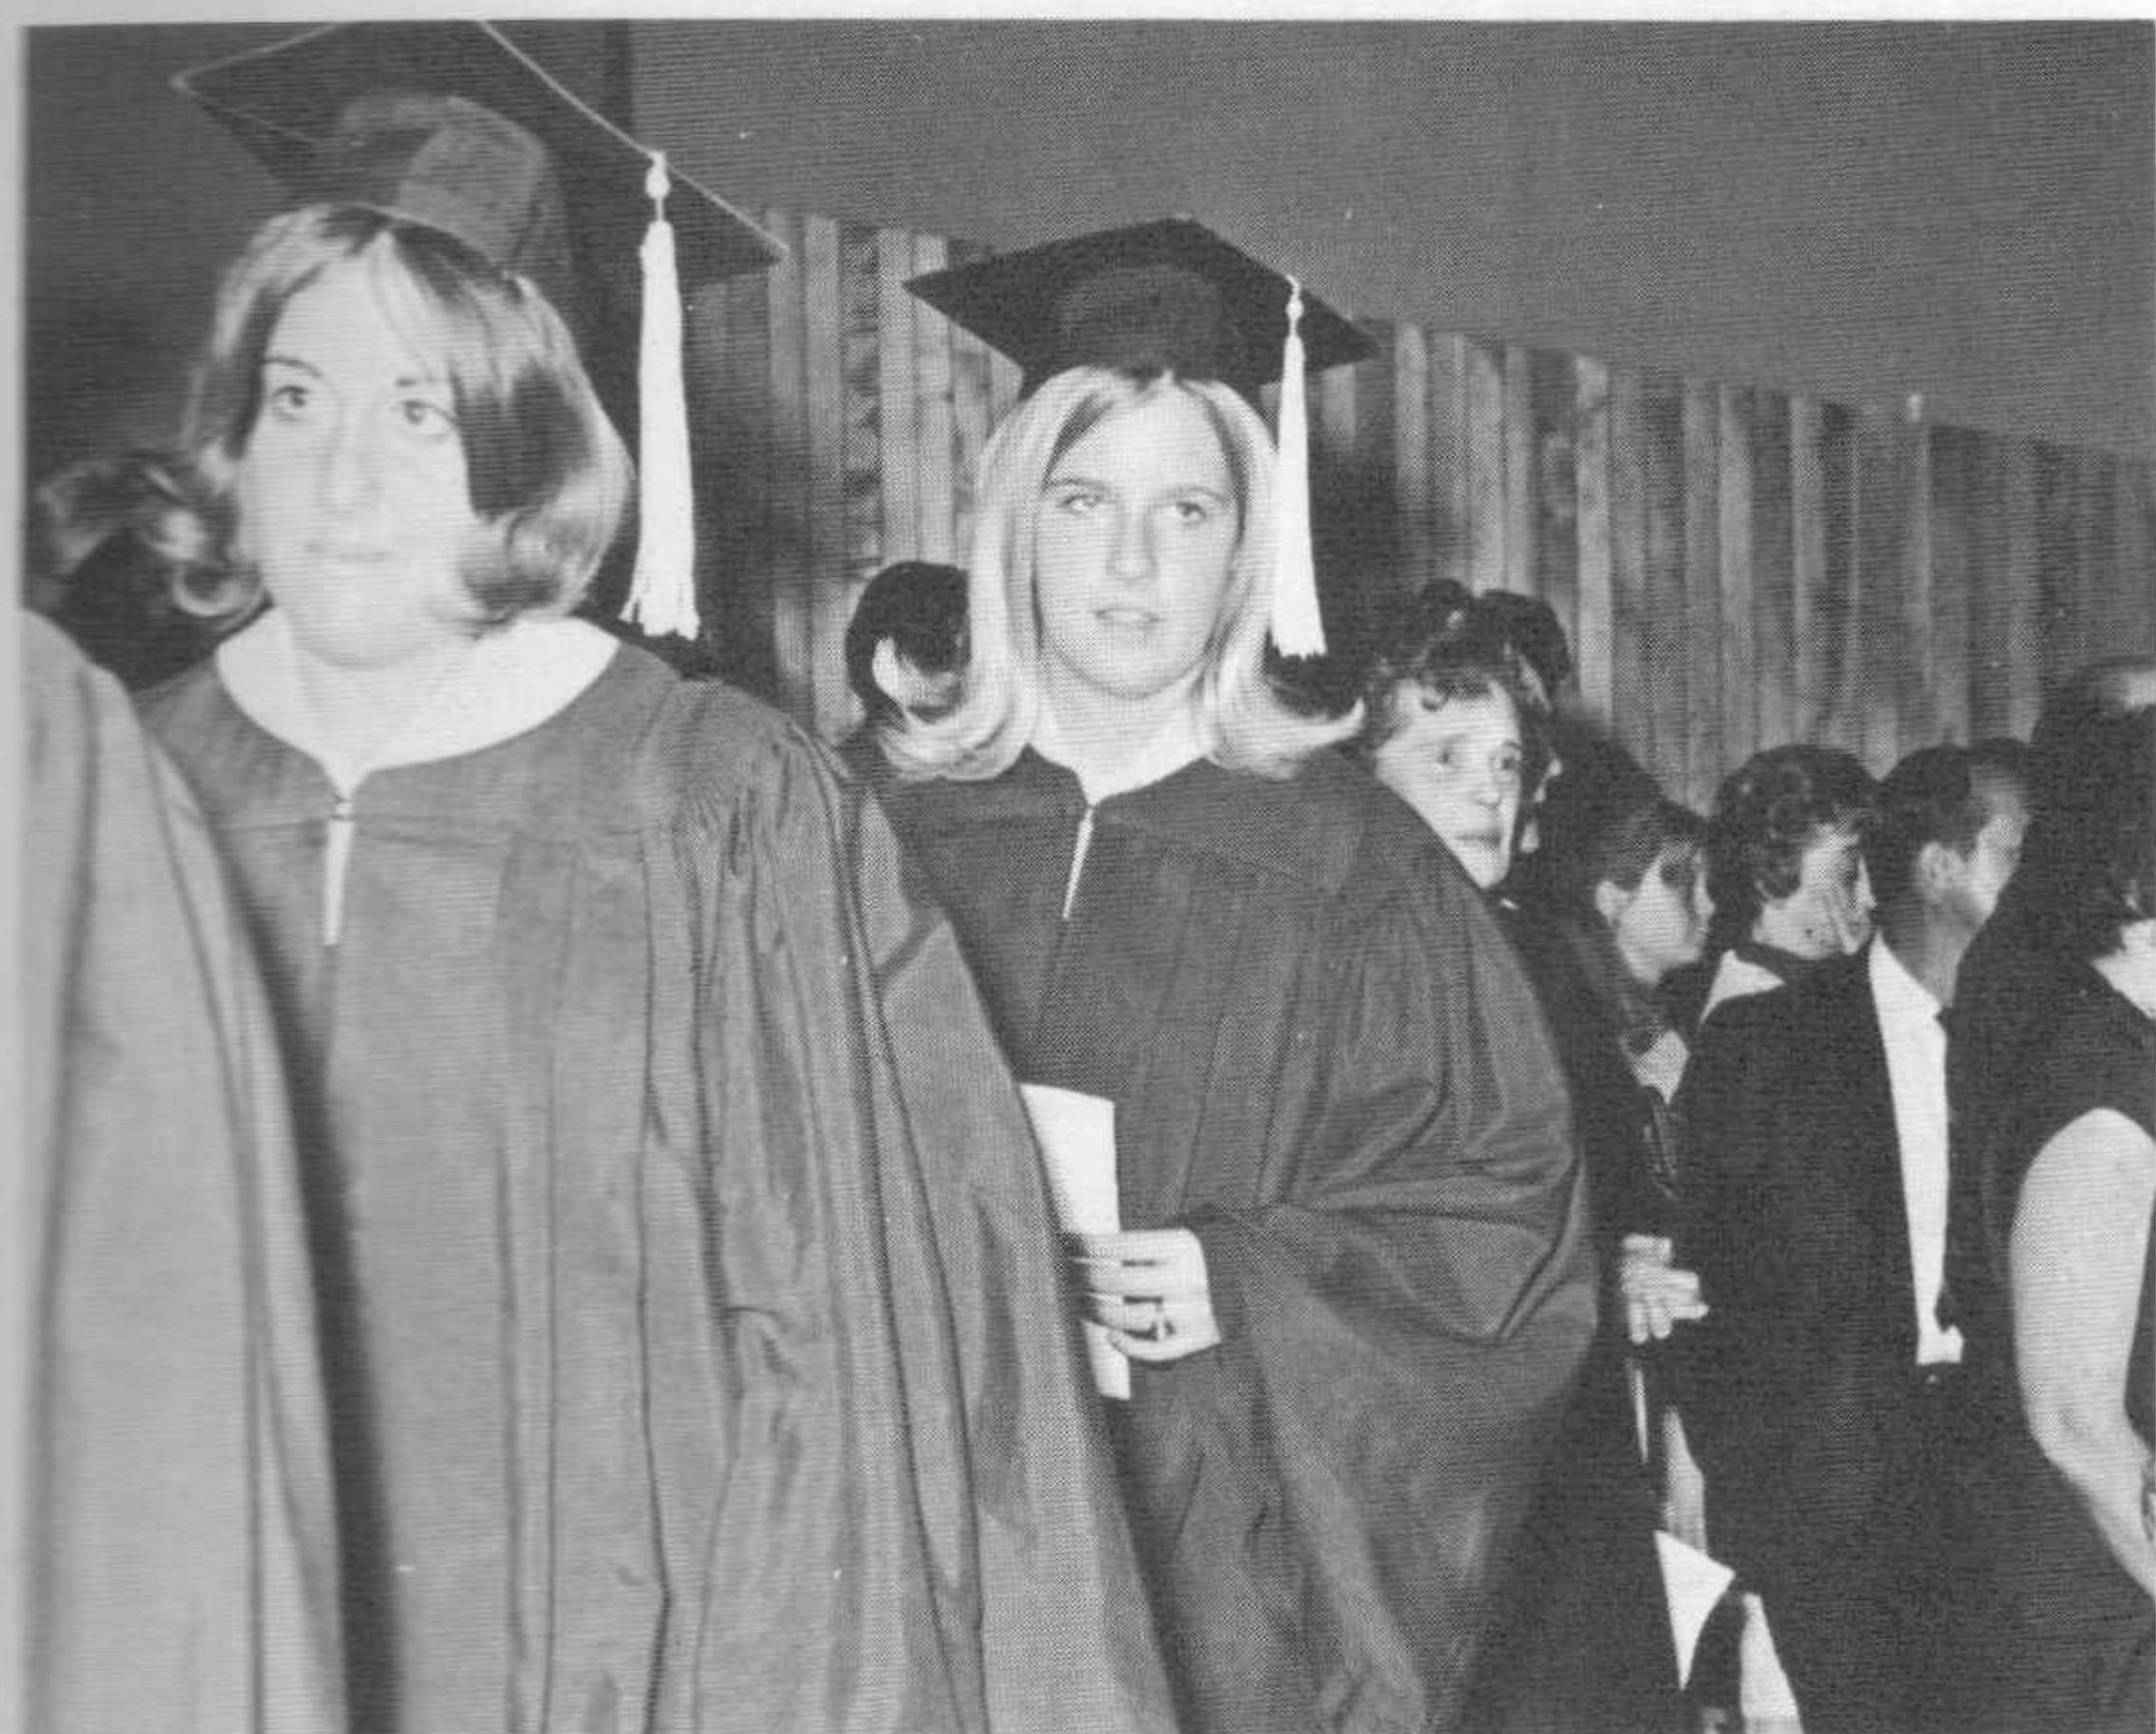

We, Paula Nickerson and Helene Pusick, leave next year's year-book staff with the hope that they get things going earlier.

We, Mimph Honpe, leave Mr. Buck . . . wait, NO WE DON'T! I, 92638, leave Mr. Marcoux, finally.

I, the old Sassamon news editor, leave to the new Sassamon news editor 368 assorted newsworthy events to take place in Natick High School.

We, Craig and Kathy, leave a little bit of privacy in the prep room to any junior couple taking A and P next year.

We, the members of the Student Council, leave Wellesley—in couples.

I, George Henry McNamara, Jr., leave all the cute little sophomore girls with the promise that I'll send them a picture of me next year when I'll be six feet four, 225 pounds, and the star of the Assumption football team.

I, Jim Ray, leave my sparkling personality, my perfect attendance in track, and my one really neat, really fine, real sharp, bosso, neato P.A. notice to the Tokyo Date-a-Mate Company in the hope that they can find me a nice, really boss, groovy Oriental girl who talks a lot and doesn't expect much in return.

We, . . . ah . . . Richard Merson and . . . ah . . . Mark Di-Rienzo, who are now . . . ah . . . ready . . . ah . . . for the . . . ah . . . thirteenth grade and who are no longer under duress, are happy to leave our censored notebooks from Mr. Marcoux's Modern Dance class to some junior boy who likes to count. "Are you kiddin'?"

I, Paul Fitzgerald, leave the junior class a pair of scissors with which to cut class.

I, Carla Pizzano, leave my radio on full blast in all studies.

I, Cindi Costello, leave my Saturday morning breakfasts to any junior girl in the band, brave enough to face thirty-five people at 8:00 a.m.

We, Miss McDade's C period and F period economics classes, leave her ALONE.

We, Paul and Bill, leave Mr. Smith a new shipment of rage.

I, Mike Bresnick, leave to all future Safety Patrollers a warning: If you get kicked off Safety Patrol, it will be a black mark on your record for the rest of your life.

I, Benny Bamford, leave a box of "No-Doz" to anyone who takes public speaking next year.

We, Sharon Bornstein and Julie Malcouronne, leave to the 1969 girls' basketball team a new coach and the hope for another unblemished record.

I, Kyle Vayda, leave to Mr. Sticklor and his detention hall, my brother.

We, Judy Barnes and Mike Albert, leave to Mr. Gaudette a good shake to keep him awake A periods.

We, last year's honors physics class, leave Mr. Biedrzycki one pair of insulated shoes so that he won't get zapped in the head by the Van de Graaff generator.

I, Bob Cohen, leave one potato chip bearer to feed one starving administrator.

I, Eric Brown, leave my livid lunch conversations stuck to the gum under the table, where they belong.

We, the students of 4-G gym class, leave to Mr. O'Grady four new water faucet knobs.

I, the general, leave to Mr. Garnett one broken colonnade, two packages of used cigars, one unused playbook, and one slightly bruised doorman.

We, Carla, Sandy, and Marsha, leave our late breakfasts and lunches at Piccolo's to Alice Hayes and Sue Stolberg.

We, "the driver," Lefty, Bucks, Fred, Gopher, Weazel, and P.G., leave our nicknames.

We, Ron Pfeiffer, Gary Kamens, and Paul Fitzgerald, leave Mr. Collins a complete set of sideburns, a beard, a mustache and a belt.

I, Bill Picard, leave, knowing that nobody will ever be able to fill my shoes.

I, Maddy Farrell, leave my brother Michael without a ride to school.

I, Cindi Costello, leave to Mr. Hahn four broken saxophones, two dozen stale doughnuts, and many thanks for all the things he's done for me in the past two years.

I, Mark Brennehan, leave my clapping, dancing, and singing ability to the boy who gets "shyest" in next year's "senior superlatives."

We, the senior members of the cast of "Life . . . 69," leave the talented underclassmen from our show. We also leave the sincere wish that the Student Council and Mr. Dyer will dramatically "let the sun shine in," for many years to come.

We, the senior girls, leave the junior girls a ride in Carla's dead Safari car.

We, Mike Bresnick, Bob Cohen, Mike Albert, and Eric Brown, leave to Mr. Bransfield a pinch of Morton's salt, a little used chalk holder, some scotch tape in case his grapevine is ever really cut, a book entitled "How To Act Surprised When Called to the Stage During the Winter Sports Awards Assembly and Gracefully Accept Your Gift from the Track Team," and the promise that he can not possibly get us again next year.

I, Tina Lipofsky, leave the letter B in place of a W in a certain word for anyone who is brave enough to use it in another assembly.

I, George McNamara, leave my nicknames Knob, Snake, Jog, and Trixie to Leroy Anderson in that he's really cleaned me out of everything else anyway! I also leave my wallet in the Student Council bookstore vault because I know it will be safe there.

I, Harris Goldstein, leave Mr. Carroll a Junior G-Man badge.

I, Jerry Von Rueden, leave my title as Master Printer to any junior, man enough to carry it on.

We, Laura, Nina, Karen, Carla, and Cheryl, leave Mrs. Hart her finished house plans, but unfinished house.

We, her G period class, leave Miss Ward with the satisfaction of finally having found "true honors material."

We, the members of Mr. Benson's G period math class, better known as Benson's Wild Animal Farm, leave, our cages empty.

We, Cathy and Nina, leave our incense, powder, baby lotion, and gloves to future A and P classes.

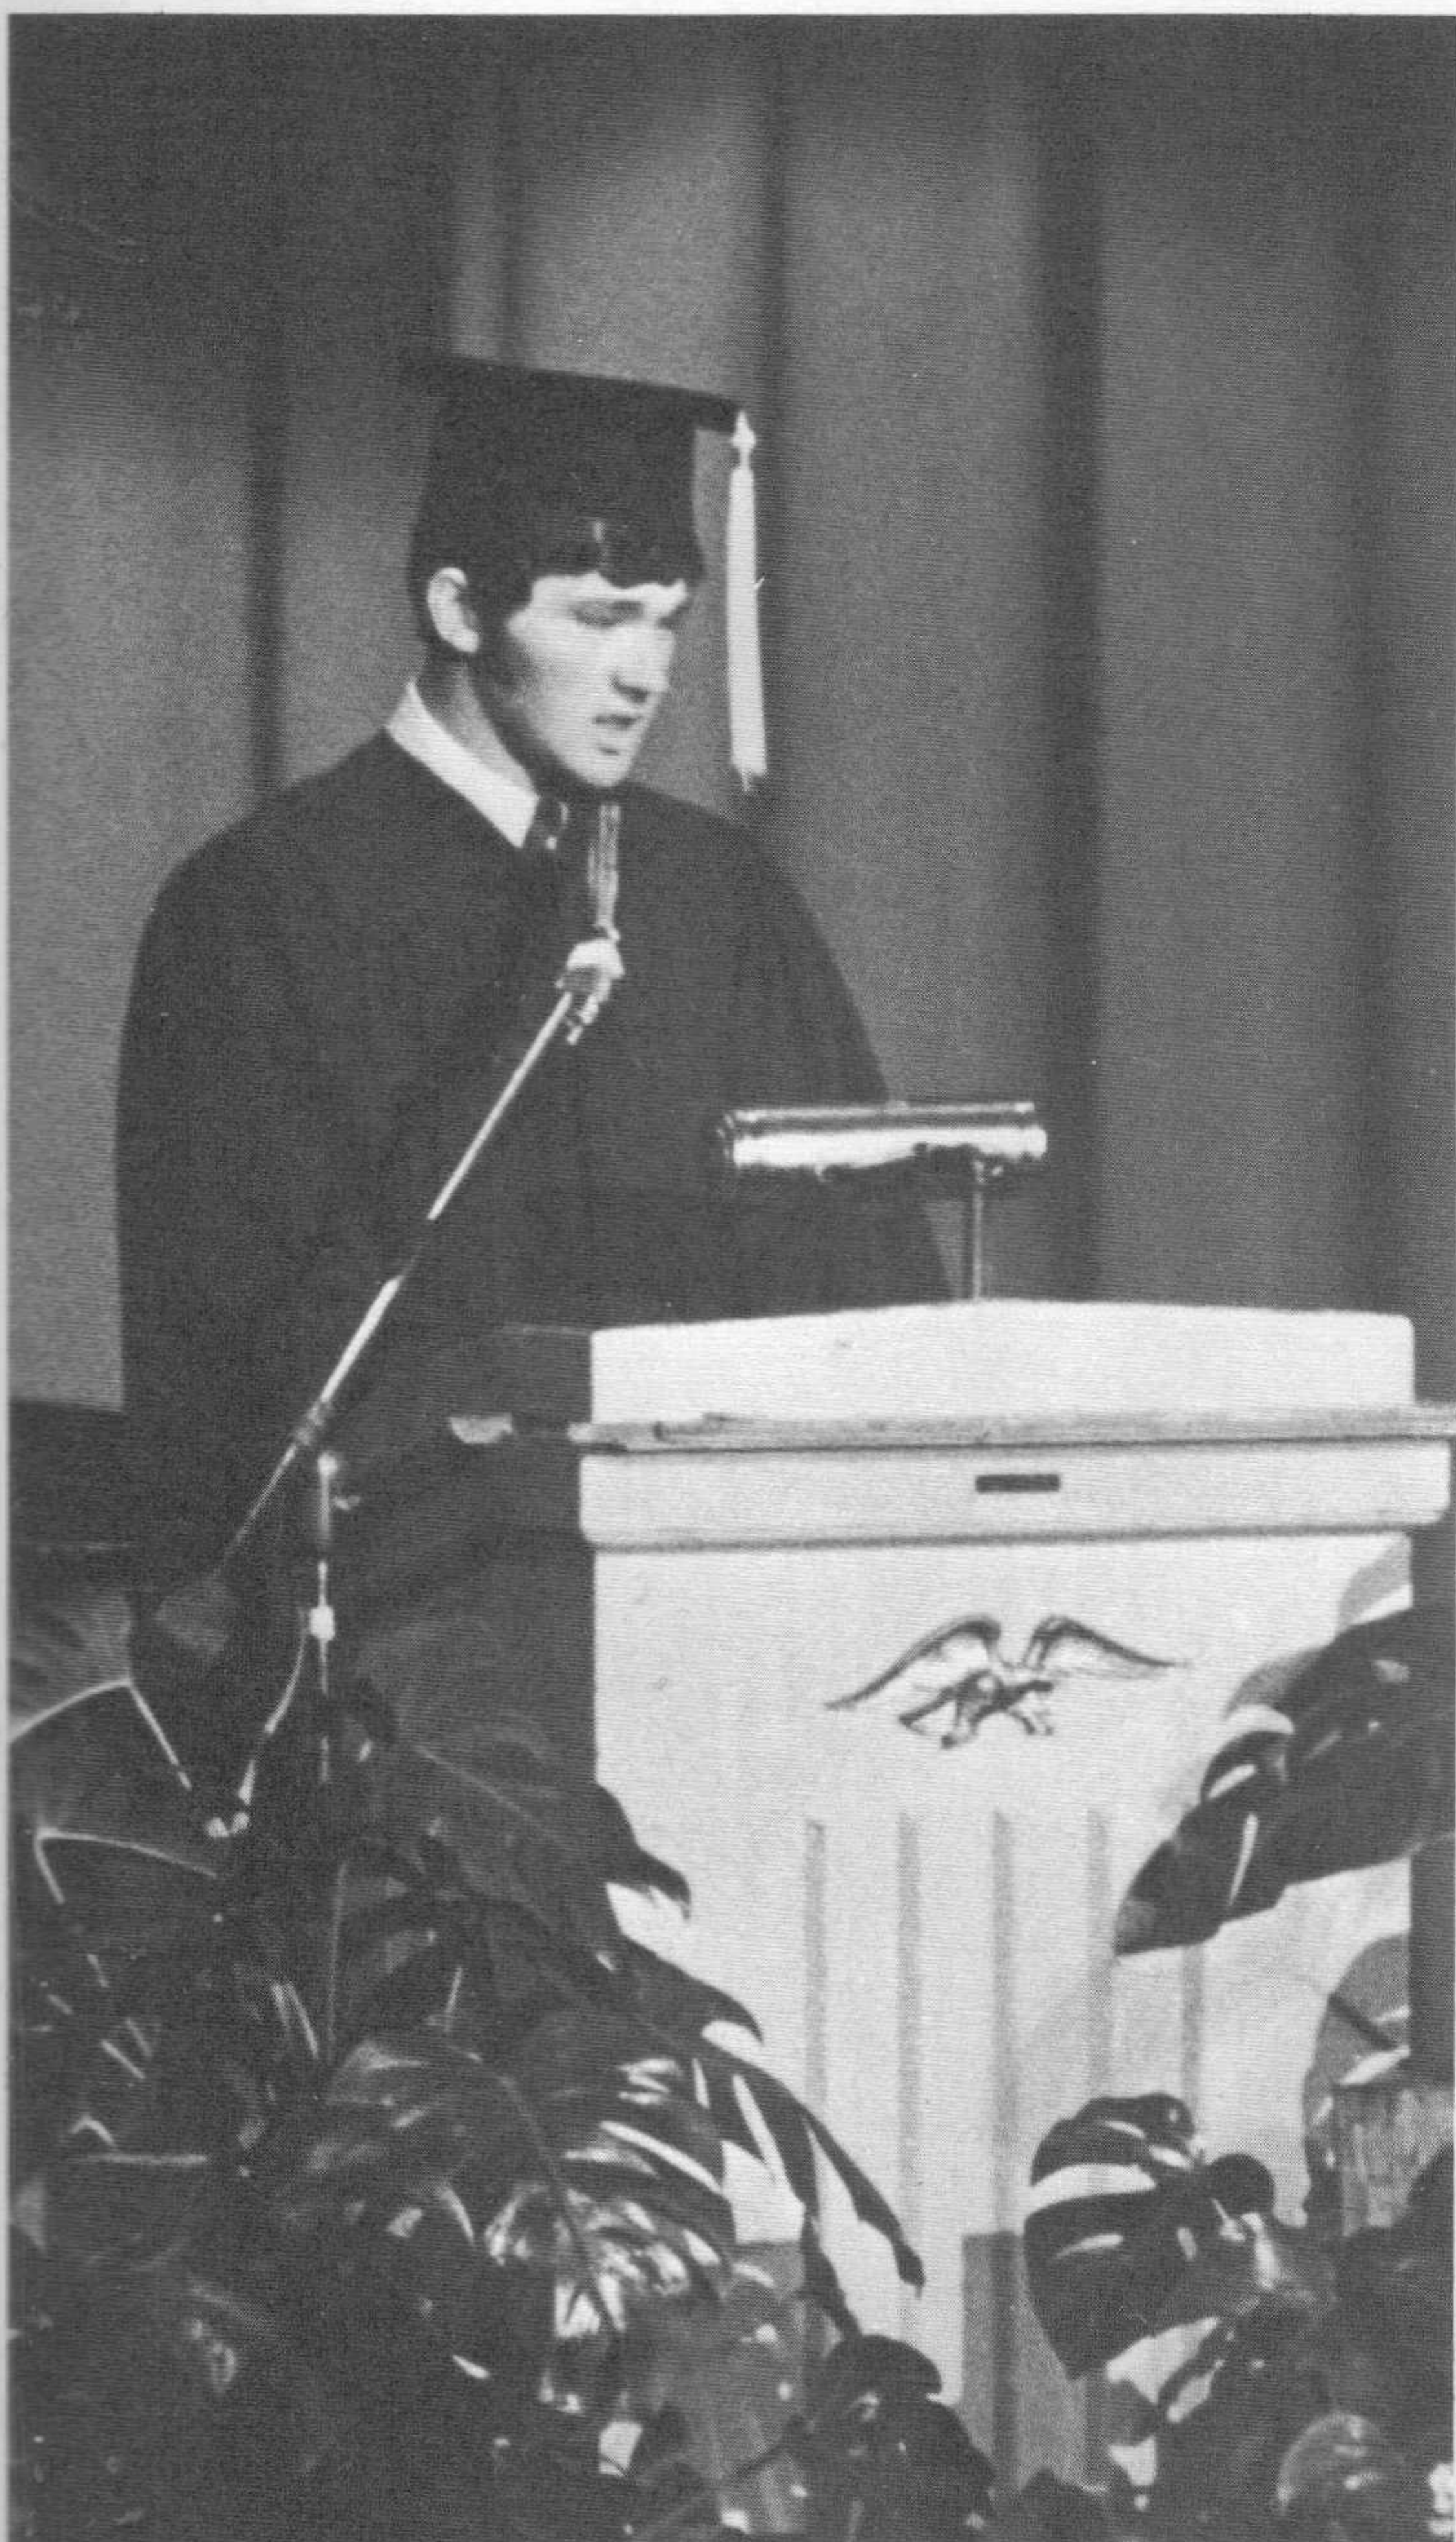

I, Mike Albert, as the last of four Alberts to graduate from Mr. Whelan's program, leave our family charter membership in the Commando Club to some other deserving family.

I, Alison Gilvarg, leave Linda Fine one leaky tube of rubber cement and my best wishes.

We, the newly instituted Israeli-American studies department leave to Mrs. Holbrook a gold-bound, autographed copy of that all time best-seller, Mein Kampf.

We, Robert Cohen, Kenny Gross, Edward Lentini, Nancy Martin, Steve Pagliarulo, Jim Ray, Buddy Sheppard, and Kyle Vayda, leave our handwriting to all the teachers we have had in the last three years.

We, the members of the class of 1969, leave Mr. Hennigar, Mr. Sticklor, and Mr. Rosen our thanks.

Graduation Welcome

Today is Graduation Day for the Senior Class of Natick High School. Throughout the nation the month of June marks the graduation of hundreds of thousands of young people from high school. And for each of these students there is a family—just like the families assembled here. I am sure that every member of every family on this field today is supremely proud, just as other families around the nation are proud. And well they might be, for they have been the most important influence in the lives of those who will some day become the leaders of this nation.

Our years in high school have given us the tools to use in developing an awareness of what is valid in the American dream, and to build on that awareness.

As we graduate today, we move toward college, military service, or business, where we will become involved in our chosen roles as citizens, each to work constructively for his own values. And that is good.

On behalf of the Natick High School Class of 1969, I welcome you with gratitude to share our happiness on Graduation Day.
